Chair of the AMC Medical School Accreditation Committee

The assessment and accreditation of primary medical programs delivered by Australian and New Zealand medical schools is one of the Australian Medical Council's core accreditation functions. The AMC's Medical School Accreditation Committee (MedSAC), a standing committee of the AMC, oversees these processes on behalf of the AMC's governing body. MedSAC advises on accreditation standards and policy, makes recommendations concerning the accreditation of programs and providers, monitors programs and providers once accredited, and contributes to the review and improvement of medical education in Australia and New Zealand. The Committee reports to the AMC Directors.

The AMC is seeking to appoint a Chair of the Medical School Accreditation Committee to take effect from 25 November 2022, on the conclusion of the term of the current Chair, Professor Geoff McColl.

The Chair will also be, ex officio, a Director and a Member of the AMC Ltd, a company limited by guarantee and a registered charity under the Australian Charities and Not for Profits Commission. The AMC is an independent national standards body for medical education and training whose purpose is to ensure that standards of education, training and assessment of the medical profession promote and protect the health of the Australian community.

The AMC is committed to diversity in committee memberships, reflecting diverse skills and experiences, geographical locations and academic, clinical, professional and community expertise.

To ensure we meet our strategic goal of ensuring culturally safe practice to improve health outcomes, we understand that we require Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander and Māori Peoples in our governance. We are committed to a working environment that is inclusive and culturally safe for all.

The AMC encourages Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander and Māori Peoples to apply for all roles advertised.

The term of appointment will be for four years. The successful candidate will be able to commit up to 20 days per year to progress the work of the Committee and to prepare for and attend meetings of the Committee, Directors and Council.

The full candidate nomination pack, including the EOI form, Committee Terms of Reference, Directors Charter, and other governing documents can be obtained by emailing council@amc.org.au

To nominate for the position, candidates must complete and return the Expression of Interest Form along with their CV by 5.00pm AEST, Friday 1 July 2022. All applications will be reviewed by an AMC Selection Panel and shortlisted candidates invited to participate in an interview in early to mid-July.

Diversity and inclusion are considered essential to the AMC’s continued success.

The AMC values the diversity of thought and experience and believes that an inclusive and collaborative culture underpins the accreditation and assessment of medical education.

We celebrate and promote diversity as a significant strength in our organisation.
