The assessment and accreditation of primary medical programs delivered by Australian and New Zealand medical schools is one of the Australian Medical Council's core accreditation functions. The AMC's Medical School Accreditation Committee (MedSAC), a standing committee of the AMC, oversees these processes on behalf of the AMC's governing body. MedSAC advises on accreditation standards and policy, makes recommendations concerning the accreditation of programs and providers, monitors programs and providers once accredited, and contributes to the review and improvement of medical education in Australia and New Zealand. The Committee reports to the AMC Directors.

The AMC is seeking to appoint a Chair of the Medical School Accreditation Committee. The Chair will also be, ex officio, a Director and a Member of the AMC Ltd.

The term of appointment will be for four years. The successful candidate will be able to commit approximately 20 days per year to progress the work of the Committee and to prepare for and attend meetings of the Committee, Directors and Council, and to engage with medical programs.
